According to the Rules and Regulations for the 2006 NFDA Convention and Expo, Section 9, ADMITTANCE, states:

- Representatives of exhibitors or non-exhibiting suppliers shall only be admitted to the Exhibit Hall if they are displaying registration badges. Registration badges are available to owners, executives, employees, and bona fide representatives of exhibitors. Each representative must have his or her own badge. Additional badges are $60 each.
- No representative may loan or trade his or her registration badge to any other person for any reason. Any badge requests after September 15, will only be provided upon payment of a fee of $60 per badge.
- Persons guilty of the practice of loaning or trading badges will be penalized by having their registration and badge cancelled and all privileges terminated. In addition, NFDA shall collect the applicable registration fee from any unregistered individual who makes use of the registrant's badge. If that fee is not collected from the individual, the firm whose representative loaned the identification badge will be invoiced for the amount of the registration fee applicable to the user of the badge.
- NFDA reserves the right to cancel any exhibitor's contract or revoke the registration and badge of any representative or exhibitor who violates the rules and regulations of the exhibit.
